The L-shaped retaining wall unit can be used to construct walls suitable for earth retention, fill containment or crop and waste storage.

Their simple design allows them to be easily moved and assembled, providing you with movable storage facilities. We are able to provide both single and double side loading units for above or below ground use.

L-units require minimal foundation, making them one of the most rapidly assembled concrete walls on the market.

Corner and intersections units are available for this product. We are also able to crane this product into position for you if required.
